Overview of ASEAN

The Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) is a regional organization founded on 8 August 1967 to promote economic growth, social progress, cultural development, and regional peace among its members. It originally started with five founding countries: Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, Singapore, and Thailand, and later expanded to include Brunei, Vietnam, Laos, Myanmar, and Cambodia, forming the current ten-member bloc . ASEAN is headquartered in Jakarta, Indonesia, and operates on principles of consensus and respect for national sovereignty .

Member States

- Indonesia – The largest country in Southeast Asia by population and land area.
- Malaysia – A federal constitutional monarchy with a diverse economy.
- Philippines – An archipelagic nation and the ASEAN Chair for 2026 .
- Singapore – A highly developed city-state and financial hub.

- Thailand – Known for its tourism and agricultural exports.
- Brunei – A small, wealthy nation with significant oil and gas resources.
- Vietnam – An emerging economy with rapid industrial growth.
- Laos – A landlocked country with developing infrastructure.
- Myanmar – Rich in natural resources, currently facing political challenges.
